James Rousey

m.

"Kitty" —

In

early life, they lived, in Rock-bridge County, Virginia, at Ben-na Vista, near Natural Bridge.
Some time later, they moved with their family, to Kanawha County, W. Va., near Kanawha Falls, and finally located, at Milton, Cabell County, where they ran the Milton Hotel, and continued to operate it, for the remainder of their lives.

To this union, were born
nine children:

1. Polina Rousey who married Alex. Peyton, in the year 1854. At this time, she was eighteen years old, and soon thereafter, they established their home, on a farm, in this locality, and remained there as long as they lived.

Here 13 children were born to them:

1. Isabella Peyton
2. Phyllis Peyton
3. Mary Peyton
4. Alzada Peyton.
5. Alihue Peyton
6. Louwada Peyton
7. Elza Peyton
8. Myrtle Peyton
9. Ulysses Peyton.
10. James Peyton.
11. Nora Peyton
12. Charles Peyton
13. Dora Peyton

In addition to these, Mr. Peyton had two children, by a previous marriage, known so familiarly, to many of the family, as Uncle Lewis and Aunt Lucinda Peyton.

Of this number there are only two, who survive: Alihue, who is 82 years of age, and James, who is 75.

4. Martha Rowsey, fourth daughter of James and Kitty Rowsey, was born July 6, 1854, in Rockbridge County, and some years later, her parents moved to Cabell County, W. Va., in the late summer of 1865. About the close of the Civil War, a number of soldiers were marching ~~that~~ through that part of the country, a dark, handsome looking young man, stopped to ask her, for a drink of water, just as she was drawing it, from the well, and, of course, she very politely, gave him the refreshing drink, and somehow, that winsome personality, and sweet smile of hers, touched his heart, and instead of carrying out the plan that he and his soldier buddies had made to come back that night, and rob the home, in which Martha lived, he said "Oh no, boys, we are not going to rob that house, for, if I ever get out of this army, that woman, that gave me the drink of water is going to be my wife, and sure enough, when he got his discharge, from the army, he kept his word, and came back, and found Martha still single, and waiting for him. Their courting days were soon over, and they were united in holy matrimony, on Feb 11, 1866, in this county, and, for quite a number of years, made their home here. This home is still standing, and is known as the Old Bias Homestead. However, their latter days were spent in Huntington, W. Va. Mr Bias preceded her, in death, by a good many years, and Aunt Martha, as she was known to her many friends, passed to her reward, on the other side of Jordan Nov. 30, 1932.

To this union was born: the following named sons and daughters:

1. David A. Bias

2. James Andrew Bias

3. Riley M. Bias

4. Mary Emily Bias

1. James, who is now nearing his eighty-second birthday.

2. William Bias, seventy-two

3. Bessie's age, she didn't say James Rowsey, known as "Uncle Jimmy", son of James and Kitty Rowsey, was born June 29, 1850, in Rockbridge County, near Natural Bridge. He was just a small boy, when his parents moved to West Virginia, and settled in Kanawha County, and later into Cabell County, near Millon. He was united, in marriage, to Delilah Irwin, August 6, 1853, and soon after their marriage, they built a little log cabin, which still remains, and is known as the "Uncle Jimmy Rowsey Home" and here they raised their family of children, and resided, in it, until they were called home.

Born to this union were:

Work On Distribution Costs

On the 21st floor of a Madison Ave. skyscraper, a group of men sat around discussing your daily bread. There were 36 men. They were gathered in the conference room of the Economics of Distribution Foundation Inc., headed by a soft-spoken economist Dave Kaplan.

They are the men who head the big eastern bakeries and the men who work for them delivering bread and cake door-to-door throughout the area.

They had been called together by the Foundation, on the board of which were not only the owners of the giant baking companies but Dave Beck, leader of the giant Teamsters, and Jim Cross, head of the Baking and Confectionery Workers. Their problem was to cut the cost of delivering bread so wages could go up, profits could go up and maybe the prices of bread could go down—but never up again.

They had figures before them showing that six out of every ten dollars spent for bread and other foods goes for distribution. They knew that it sometimes takes a truck longer to cross the bridge from Brooklyn to Manhattan than it takes to roll over the road from Philadelphia to New York.

They knew that it costs more to move some fruit 20 blocks from a central market to a consumer than it costs to grow it, grade it, pack it and ship it from California to New York.

They were gathered to try and do something to cut the cost of this distribution—this delivery.

Here then was a group of union men evincing a new kind of consciousness of the consumer's and the employer's problems. If this experiment succeeds, it will be easy for the Foundation to put together other conferences on the more efficient distribution of soft drinks, fruits, vegetables and milk.

The 36 men ended their conference by setting up committees to bring in reports and set aside certain areas for experimental "laboratories."

For example, one company official said that he would like the union delivery men to take a cut in commissions earned on door-to-door bread and cake delivery. Then his firm could use the money it saves by buying better ingredients and turning out a tastier, superior product. This would soon sell better. The men would earn more, even with a reduced commission rate. If this experiment failed, the company promised it would restore the pay cut.

The local union in that area agreed. We'll soon know what happens. If successful, the company will make higher profits. The unionists will get more pay. The consumer will get more for his money. Everybody will eat cake. Quite an experiment.
